F. ITEMS FOR DISCUSSION AND ACTION

1. DISCUSSION: Recommend addition of tutoring service as a Systemwide Resource

Boyer announced that the System Office had not received every member library's evaluation and scoring of the three tutoring services. As a result, the Committee could not make a formal recommendation on which service to offer as a Systemwide resource. Members were invited to share thoughts and comments on the three services that were offered in response to the RFP.

Members expressed concerns that Tutor Me Education had not worked with a public library consortium like SJVLS and services might not fit member library and patron needs.

Brainfuse received positive reviews due to library and patron familiarity with the resource that we currently offer and have offered in the past. Members commented that the Brainfuse platform is easy to use and connecting with a tutor is quick and straightforward.

Members valued the availability of tutors and the experience of working with them on Tutors.com. The resource's connections to The Princeton Review were regarded as beneficial for patrons. Some members had concerns about access to tutoring over the phone as an alternative to online tutoring.

Brainfuse and Tutor.com were thought to be comparable platforms that would benefit patrons.

Wymer (SJVLS) reminded the Committee that any libraries who had not submitted evaluation scoring sheets would need to submit those and the Committee will need to meet again in a week, on January 23, to review the evaluation scores and make a recommendation on which service to offer.
